

Vegan Bakery 'Cinnaholic' Set for Expansion!

Cinnaholic, a vegan bakery known for its award-winning gourmet cinnamon rolls, is set to expand to nine more locations in the United States!

The bakery is currently located in Berkeley and Southlake, and is set to open three locations in Arizona, three in Colorado, and three in San Diego, making their vegan treats all the more accessible!

According to their website, all of their cinnamon rolls are vegan and cholesterol-free, and the bakery is unique since they "specialize in high quality gourmet Cinnamon Rolls", while offering customers "the ability to customize each roll specifically to your personal taste with a variety of frosting and topping options."

Their wide variety of options can be viewed on their website, and the flavors include butterscotch, caramel, key lime, pomegranate, mint, cream soda, and many more! Co-founder Shannon Radke states:

"It has been a crazy wild ride so far, and I am beyond excited to see my recipe and idea come to life all over the country."

After checking out the 30+ frosting flavors and toppings, we are definitely beyond excited as well!
