March 15, 2019

CMIT Solutions is launching its information technology (IT) services to the small and medium-sized business community in its new office in Edmond. The business provides a flat rate, around-the-clock maintenance and monitoring solutions.

“Small and medium-sized businesses throughout Oklahoma County that have felt the pain of productivity coming to a halt when their computers, networks and servers fail them — or are simply unhappy with their current or former IT service provider — need look no further,” said Don Stout, president of CMIT Solutions of Edmond. “These businesses will now have access to a full-time IT staff they can trust at prices they can afford.”

Offering a broad spectrum of proactive computer maintenance, monitoring and virtual technology packages, along with quick response services when unexpected crises occur, CMIT Solutions has carved out its niche as an industry innovator that specializes in working with the small business community. They partner with Microsoft, Dell, and Intuit.

“When it comes to technology infrastructure, small and medium-sized businesses need the same tools and support services as large enterprises — just on a smaller scale and at prices they can afford,” Stout explained. “They need the same assurance that their confidential business data will be protected, computers will run without interruption, and their systems will remain free from viruses, spyware, hackers and failures. Furthermore, they’ll need the same expert advice and problem-solving approach that large businesses receive from high-dollar consultants. CMIT Solutions is one of the only IT providers offering this level of expertise and customized service at rates small businesses can afford.”

An Oklahoma native with a strong background in business consulting, project management and IT leadership, Stout has insight into what it takes to run a successful small business. After working 20-plus years in the technology industry across notable Fortune 500 companies, he’ll use his expertise to connect with other like-minded entrepreneurs about the importance of leveraging their IT, and how CMIT Solutions’ products and services can help them achieve their business goals.

“I’m excited to start this journey,” Stout said. “With the support of CMIT’s home office, technology partners, and a network of 200-plus offices nationwide, we’re part of an organization with remarkable resources. CMIT Solutions allows me to fulfill a long-time goal of owning my own business, while at the same time contributing to the community by providing a valuable service.”
