

14 Family Travel Trends to Watch for in 2020

By Kate Loweth | December 22, 2019

If your New Year's resolution is to show your kids more of the world, this list is for you. Think beyond weekends at the beach or theme park destinations, and read up on what sources say are going to not only be top travel destinations, but also the family-friendly travel trends you'll be seeing everywhere in the next decade. Scroll down to see them all—we may have already planned your next vacation!

According to Michelle Fee, CEO and founder of Cruise Planners, multi-generational travel has become a more popular option for families, and we love that! Whether you plan a three-generation trip or a skip-gen one that leaves the parents at home, there are resorts that are specifically offering activities that will appeal to all ages of family members. Idaho Rocky Mountain Ranch is one of our top travel destinations for families, as you can bunk up in adjoining cabins and enjoy meals together under the stars. Nearby activities include fishing and visiting gold rush towns, and you can enjoy the warm waters of the on-site hot spring-fed pool after a busy day exploring.